One wonders if it is an application or a network problem. You can change it to KB / S or MB / S or at the bit rate of your choice through the given option. I have been using Internet Speed Meter in my Android phone for a while, and now I am so used to it that working on a PC without monitoring Internet speed seems strange. Stay that Windows 10 comes with a native monitoring tool Bandwidth, it does not offer a tool to monitor Internet speed. In fact, most manufacturers include it as a built-in feature. Thanks to them, you can know rapidly when the speed decreases. To do this, click with the right button on the NetSpeedMonitor counter in the taskbar and press data traffic. Double-click on the NetSpeedMonitor tool in the taskbar is used to enable and disable monitoring, by default. . In this article, we will see how the Internet speed can be displayed in the Windows 10 taskbar.Show the Internet speed in the Windows 10AQUE taskbar, we will use third-party software called NetSpeedMonitor to show the Internet speed in the taskbar. Although some of you do not like the idea of having a constant speed meter in the taskbar, there are many people who will appreciate it. There is a video tutorial of the same solution of our YouTube channel of GUIDING TECH (English): I would like Microsoft to enter a native tool to see the speed of the Internet as some Android telephones today have a day. Is it the Focus Assist option at the Action Center of your Windows PC? If you are in Windows 10, click with the right button in Settings> Properties> Compatibility and select the Compatibility mode for previous versions of Windows.
